Complete oral hygiene

Proper oral hygiene is more than just brushing your teeth. Dental plaque, tartar, bits of food and bacteria can cause many infections inside your mouth. According to dentists today, brushing your teeth and using traditional dental floss is not enough. The Evorei BOOST 1 water flosser will not just wash the gaps between your teeth but also improve blood circulation of your gums, leading to better oral health overall.

5 Cleaning modes

Evorei BOOST 1, despite being a mobile device much smaller than stationary water flossers, comes with 5 cleaning modes - 4 automatic modes and a DIY setting. Soft, medium, strong and pulse modes were designed to efficiently get rid of dental plaque, especially between your teeth and close to your gums. Soft mode is made with new users of water flossers in mind, medium mode is designed for everyday oral hygiene, strong mode makes the device fire a concentrated water jet that is perfect for people that have densely packed teeth or those that have been using water flossers for a long time. The pulse mode is used for gum massage.

The water jet coming from the water flosser flushes out bits of food, dental plaque, bacteria and loose pieces of tartar, especially out of places that are hard for a toothbrush to reach. Our innovative DIY mode lets you adjust the pressure of the water jet to your needs and preferences. Adjusting the pressure of the water jet coming out of Evorei Boost 1 is easily done with the use of a single button. The pressure can be adjusted from 30 psi to 100 psi. The water flosser remembers your settings and will automatically use previously used pressure settings when turned on.

Easy to read display

The Evorei Boost 1 wireless water flosser comes with an easy to read, round OLED display screen, informing you about the remaining battery power and currently used work mode.

Fits like a glove

The Evorei Boost 1 water flosser is designed to fit your hand perfectly. The device is covered in a non-slip coating that prevents the device from accidentally slipping out of your grip.

Easy filling

The device comes with a 280 ml water tank that is easy to fill and to clean. This amount of water is used during a single flossing and the device turns off automatically when the water tank is emptied.

Good Morning!

4 Replaceable tips

The Evorei Boost 1 water flosser comes with 4 standard replaceable tips. The classic water flosser tip is used for regularly cleaning gaps between teeth, gums, periodontal pockets and other hard to reach places in your oral cavity.

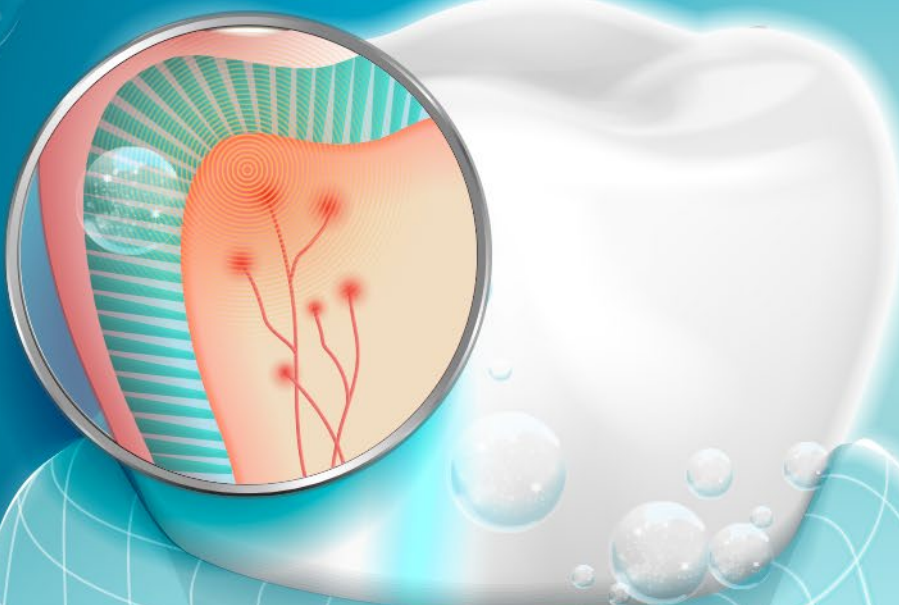

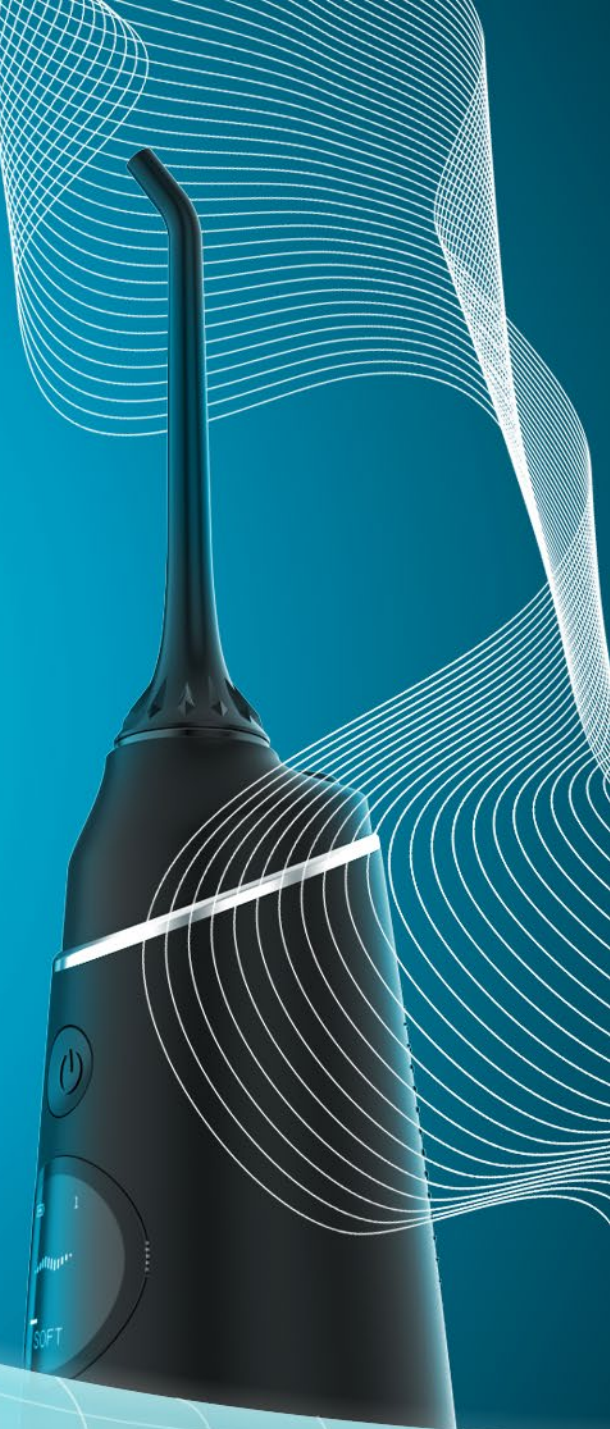

The tips have seals in two different colours, making it easier to tell the different tips apart and letting several people use the same device.

Protection against periodontitis and tooth decay

It's better to prevent than to heal - and that applies to your mouth, too. Regularly cleaning areas that are at a high risk of bacterial buildup protects you from inflammation that can lead to periodontal disease.

The Evorei Boost 1 water flosser washes periodontal pockets, where bacteria tend to gather, preventing dental plaque from settling as well.

Gentle with gums Ruthless with plaque

The water jet flushes out bacteria and bits of food from gaps between your teeth that even a sonic toothbrush can't reach. But the water flosser doesn't just clean hard to reach spaces. By massaging and stimulating your gums, it improves their health, prevents them from bleeding and stops dental plaque and tartar from forming. The device efficiently prevents gums from getting infected and helps with their recovery.

Everyday oral hygiene is not fully effective if you only use a toothbrush. Today, dentists and oral hygiene specialists recommend flossing - but traditional dental floss is being replaced with electric water flossers. They are more precise, more comfortable and more efficient than any other home method of oral care. Additionally, a rechargeable dental flosser is more eco-friendly than traditional dental floss.
